September 8th 2017: Encore: Self-monitoring and Follow-up Care after a Breast Cancer Diagnosis

What is the standard of follow-up care after a cancer diagnosis? How much self-monitoring is the right amount? What about follow-up care from our physician team? These questions come up often as different doctors seem to have different methods of monitoring their patients. We will explore this topic and more with our very special guest, Lillie Shockney, Administrative Director of the Johns Hopkins Breast Center. Lillie is also a two-time breast cancer survivor, professional speaker, and published author.
