October 17th 2017: Cyber Security Tips from the Mind of a Hacker

The world was shocked when Equifax announced that 143 million people's Social Security numbers were compromised, and everyone asked how did this happen? But they are not the only ones to suffer a compromise in data security. Many other firms have had data breaches, even though we only hear about the big ones. In 2017, PwC interviewed 9,600 firms globally and found that 41% of them had experienced at least one security incident in the past year. For many leaders and companies these figures should make it clear that securing corporate data is a must, it is no longer just an option. But t
