The Internet of Things (IoT) is a hot buzz word today. Any device that is connected to the internet is part of the IoT and is exposed to potential risks. As the biggest market that manufactures many types of devices and with the 5G infrastructure deployment is leading in the globe, China has played a critical role in the IoT world. But why China will be the leading IoT market in the future? How far away is IoT to our lives? Why IoT is important to everyone today? What are the potential risks of IoT brings to consumers and businesses? In this episode, Mr. Song Li, Chief Technology Officer
