We often think of being brave as donning a cape or a uniform and committing daring acts in extreme situations. However, according to this week's guest, bravery in leadership looks very different than the hero leader we are used to seeing. Kimberly Davis, the author of Brave Leadership puts forward that being brave as a leader means discovering and being our true selves in the role. In this week's show we will talk about what that means for leadership overall and what, in particular it means for women wanting to advance. Michelle Bevan, our EQ Coach will also join us, focusing on knowing and un
