May 25th 2021: Early Childhood Brain Development

We're so grateful to welcome back Deborah McNelis this week. She shares with us additional insights into early brain development that parents and grandparents can use to help the children in their lives to de-stress, increase confidence, and build resilience from infancy on. The great news is that no matter how young or old you are, it's never too late. Understanding what the brain needs so that it's not too over-stimulated nor to under-stimulated, is vital to be healthy, happy human. So tune-in to learn more about we can do to help nurture the next generation to success and well-being. To lea
