Featured Guests

Sebastian Fox
Sebastian Fox set up brownfox consultancy after almost 20 years working in senior sales, key account and marketing roles in the UK, Europe and Asia. Seb is a qualified team coach who helps leadership and functional teams significantly improve their performance through helping them develop better relationships both within the team itself, and between the team and the wider organisation in which it operates. He is part of the Faculty at the Team Coaching Studio (TCS) and co-leads their Community of Practice. He is also an accredited executive coach who has worked with over 300 individuals helping them become as good as they be at Business Development (BD), Key Client Management and leader

Carroll Macey
Carroll's passion for helping people to achieve their goals has been a life long interest with a training in psychotherapy before she trained as an Executive Coach 20 years ago. Carroll has specialised in well being and resilience throughout her career and delivers webinars, podcasts and speaks about resilience based practises. For the past four years she has been involved in NHSE Primary Care coaching of GPs, PMs and newly appointed Clinical Directors. Throughout 2020 and 2021, she has been part of the COVID-19 response team to the primary healthcare sector, where working with a partnership she has been supporting more than 3,500 people by delivering resilience and wellbeing coaching to N

Bob Shearer
Bob Shearer currently lives in Germany and has been operating successfully as a leadership developer since the 1980's. Bob's long standing passion for learning and development work is based on the fulfilment he still derives from helping leaders to exploit the full potential of the teams that they lead. Bob has enjoyed living and working all over the world and his expatriate experiences have helped to shape a particular interest in how culture washes through the work of the leader and the teams that they lead. The consequences of the global pandemic are being revealed. Powerful forces are at work and are busy driving what many suggest is a revolution in the way organisations will operate, p
