The Power of Young People to Change the World

Thursday at 3 PM Pacific

September 9th 2021: 0909: Fostering Global Connections

What does service-learning look like globally? How is it supported and fostered across Latin America and beyond? Join us this week to learn about CLAYSS, an organization that was born to accompany and serve students, educators, and community organizations that develop or want to implement educational solidarity globally.

Luz Avruj

Graduate of Institutional Management and Direction (UNSAM) and Specialist in Social and Inter-Institutional Networking (Universidad Bolivariana de Chile). Her two passions have always been Education and Social Development and she has been working in both fields: in schools and universities as a teacher and teacher trainer and with social organizations providing facilitation services, training and technical assistance, as well as developing educational materials during the last twenty years. She has worked on-site in different places in Argentina and remotely in various countries in Latin America. Lately she has been coordinating a program toward the development of Service-Learning in Central
