February 15th 2022: Facing a Global Leadership Crisis--Insights from GCSP

What does leadership look like for Geneva Center for Security Policy (GCSP)? In this two-part interview, Ambassador Thomas Greminger joins Maureen to discuss the GCSP and leadership insights and then Peter Cunningham, Head of Leadership of GCSP joins Maureen to talk about key issues that are shared across many organizations – global governance. What does leadership look like in this context? What we are doing? and how we are going about doing it is crucial.

Featured Guests

Peter Cunningham
Peter is Head of Leadership at GCSP and Co-Founder of the Geneva Leadership Alliance, a network of associates and partner organisations working together to advance the understanding and practice of leadership for the benefit of peace and security worldwide. Peter has over 20 years of experience in leadership development, adult education, and executive coaching across private, public, and non-profit sectors. He is constantly seeking new, diverse, and innovative ways to bridge the study of leadership with the practice of leading, especially at international level and across cultural, geo-graphical, political and organisational divides. Leveraging his diverse experience and background, he crea

Thomas Greminger
Ambassador Thomas Greminger is the Director of Geneva Centre for Security Policy (GCSP). He formerly served as the Secretary General of the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe (OSCE). As Secretary General, he acted as an effective crisis manager supporting successive Chairmanships in an increasingly polarized environment. In the final months of his term, he dealt with the COVID-19 crisis, working to protect the health and safety of staff while ensuring that the OSCE continued to carry out its critical mandates and maintained business continuity. Ambassador Greminger holds a PhD in history from the University of Zurich. He is Lieutenant Colonel GS (company and battalion
