April 5th 2011: Information Technology for Family Caregivers

Terry D'Silva is an electronic engineer, inventor and businessman and founder of Tertec Enterprises Inc, a successful international technology company. His latest invention, Mon Ami, could widely impact society by improving the quality of life for seniors, people with handicaps and their family caregivers, and to provide a platform for active aging. He describes his own family's experience with health-related challenges and the role of family caregiving in his family life. He talks about the technology solutions, including Mon Ami, he developed to meet these needs. He explains how his family's
