February 8th 2012: Leaning into the Mystery

We do need to know don't we! We need to think that we know, that we are certain, that we are sure. Most of our traditional faith is made up of that need to know. We've got it written down, and we've interpreted it literally and that is how we know. Science is equally an effort to know. History—though it is often told by the winners of the wars—is an attempt to know our past. And often we try to know our future by making goals, creating our vision boards and deciding what it is that the Universe should give us. But there is a mystic way that does not need to know. Where knowledge is ever
