October 9th 2012: Autism Knows No Borders

This week on Autism Spectrum Radio we look at autism from a global perspective. Many times we focus exclusively on the daily challenges of our local communities, but there is a much larger global community of autism. Be it insurance, challenges at school or in the home, these are the typical borders of our autism world. The reality of autism is that it knows no borders. Outside of the US there are millions of individuals who live with autism, with relatively limited access to any form of care. This week, your host Rob Haupt, is very excited to welcome Molly Ola Pinney to the show, Molly is t

Molly Ola Pinney

Molly Ola Pinney is a certified ABA therapist and the Founder of the Global Autism Project. In September of 2003, Molly moved to Ghana to provide ABA therapy services for a child she worked with in Seattle. Though she felt alone & isolated for her first few months in Ghana, stories of underserved children with autism came to Molly from everywhere. It was from these stories that the Global Autism Project was born! Nearly nine years later, the Global Autism Project has responded to calls for help on a local level, building in three other countries. In 2009, SOREM in Chandigarh, India became a partner, and a year later Kenya joined. The Global Autism Project most recently welcomed Peru as a ser
