April 17th 2016: Psyching Kids Up For Science!

With the wonders of science all around us in our extraordinary world, and with science-related jobs growing faster than countless other occupations, is it SO important that kids are truly psyched up for learning about science! Together, host Paula Phillips and her very special guest Care Butler will provide tips and inspiration galore on how to teach science in hands-on, engaging ways that light the fire for learning in kids' lives - and psych them up for science! Just in time for Earth Day, grab a pencil and paper and tune in for this very special hour of tips, learning, adventure, and fun!
