July 13th 2017: IoT: Game-Changing Our Security, For Good or Bad?

The buzz: "We are headed for a world that will have 24 billion IoT devices by 2020" (Andrew Meola, 12/19/16) To bolster personal safety and business security, we are cheering on the Internet of Things which gives us connected devices, integrated systems and services, and smart homes. Consider the ubiquity of cameras, overt and hidden: vehicle cams and wearable cams for law enforcement, hidden cams to catch bad behaviors at home and work. But ironically, these IoT advances also make us and our personal information vulnerable to prying eyes and ears, and cyberattacks. Will IoT help make the world
