Featured Guests

Olivia Sajjadieh

Before my professional career in admission began, I worked as a student tour guide and Admissions Fellow at Pitzer College. After I graduated, I started my career as an Assistant Director of Admission at the University of Southern California, where I worked with students applying from the East Bay, West Los Angeles, Connecticut, and Colorado.

Lauren DiProspero

I was one of those high school students who really enjoyed the college discovery process. I enjoyed passing along my knowledge to friends looking to add to their college lists, but I didn't realize I could make a rewarding career out of admissions until after college.
