Your Evolving Leadership Journey New shows weekly

April 13th 2020: Encore The Star Factor: Discover What Your Top Performers Do Differently-- Inspire a New Level of Greatness

Recent advances in the neuroscience of transformational leadership give people the ability to create and maintain purpose-driven organizational cultures that consistently and systematically live the principles of "servant leadership." Such organizations achieve top performance – and are better places to work. Understanding the neural impacts of having a personal and organizational compelling purpose gives anyone the ability to achieve greater personal satisfaction and organizational success. Understanding the neural processes associated with developing and sustaining new, better attitudes and
