The Buzz: "For better and for worse, robots will alter humans' capacity for altruism, love, and friendship... 'hybrid systems'—where people and robots interact socially—the right kind of AI can improve the way humans relate to one another" (theatlantic.com). "The internet acts like a kind of digital-fuelled alcohol, freeing us to say things to strangers that we would never dare to say if we met them" (bbc.com). "Being a good online citizen is more than being a safe Internet user—it's about being responsible, smart, and having respect for yourself and others" (goguardian.com). In our global pandem
