January 12th 2022: Saved at the Sea Wall

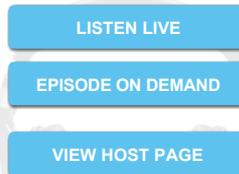

Do you remember where you were when two jets plowed into the World Trade Center buildings? If you were at ground zero, you have a particularly harrowing story to tell. But that day affected most people no matter where we were. For the people who then navigated boats on the Hudson, their peaceful everyday world became a rescue operation. In interviews afterwards they shared the compelling drive that led them to improvise, regroup and help 10s of thousands of people get off the island of Manhattan, often at risk of their own lives. In gripping detail we learn their stories and also get confirmat

Jessica DuLong

Jessica DuLong is a Brooklyn-based author, journalist, editor, and book collaborator/coach. Her book, SAVED AT THE SEAWALL: Stories from the September 11 Boat Lift is the definitive history of the largest-ever waterborne evacuation that rescued nearly 500,000 people from Manhattan. Anchored in eyewitness accounts and written by a marine engineer who served at Ground Zero, SAVED weaves together the stories of people rescued that day and the mariners who saved them. Her book, MY RIVER CHRONICLES: Rediscovering the Work that Built America won the 2010 ASJA Outstanding Book Award for memoir. DuLong writes for CNN.com and collaborates on nonfiction books including memoir; history; trauma, psycho
