

And Security For All Friday at 12 Noon Pacific

Cyber security is not only important to everyone, it is critical to the future of every American. Each show details specific points in history and provides guidance and insights of both a technical and societal nature to help you understand and address cyber security issues more effectively. Our approach makes the often misunderstood and highly technical jargon of cyber security advisories, and popular media digestible for anyone that listens.

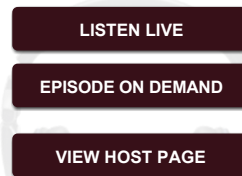

Anyone that leverages or uses internet and cyber related services, which in today's world is basically everyone, stands to benefit from the show.
