Since the beginning of time, there have been cosmic laws that govern all life from quarks to galaxies. Two world views; one of wholeness and inclusion, and the other, which permeates most of our thinking in both obvious and insidious ways, deals with separation, differences, specialness and exclusion. We have the power to choose – moment to moment – which thought system we want to use ... the one gently originating from a peaceful feeling beyond fearful or conflicted motivations, the other never quite resulting in anything we are happy with. The world view/identity/thought system of pure oneness

Featured Guest

Bruce Rawles

Bruce Rawles has sought the rhyme and reason of life's mysteries, both seen and unseen, from an early age. His "networker" mother continues to delve into metaphysical and esoteric realms sharing her love of "inner spaces", and his pragmatic father, sharing his love of the outdoors, provided an opportunity to appreciate the natural world. Within this context, Bruce's life continues to be a quest for the synthesis of "heart" and "head" approaches, the integration of alternative and mainstream paradigms; and the reconciliation of the sacred with commonplace. His first book, Sacred Geometry Design Sourcebook, offers a hands-on approach to finding interconnectedness by exploring patterns. This is
