June 2nd 2010: Can your thoughts change your genes?

Get ready to challenge everything you've ever heard or been taught about your genetic destiny. Find out about the incredible interaction between your mind and body and the processes by which your cells communicate. World renowned research scientist, former professor and bestselling author, Dr. Bruce Lipton will discuss the link between mind and matter and show us how human beings can control gene activity and even rewrite their genes by focusing on their beliefs. Welcome to the new biology – the biology of belief!
