November 04th 2010: POWER CHICKS WHO GIVE BACK

When business efficiency consultant and CPA Janet Halbert was diagnosed with breast cancer she learned a lot through the experience. She started Hurdle Jumpers in 2006 to assist others who are about to start or are in the midst of cancer treatment. Hurdle Jumpers kits, which are currently distributed through oncology practices, are designed to make a difference because they are conceived from a patient's perspective. Each kit will help patients & caregivers be involved and active in their care, help reduce stress and anxiety, and help gain a sense of control. As a cancer survivor, Janet
