March 22nd 2011: The Patients' Association and Family Caregivers

Sholom Glouberman founded the Patients' Association of Canada. He explains how his own experience as a patient convinced him of the need for an association. He shares his perspectives on family caregiving. He highlights the need for patients to become part of decision-making in healthcare. He answers the question of whether family caregivers should also be included in healthcare decision-making. He discusses the extent to which the role of family caregiving and the needs of family caregivers are understood and acknowledged by doctors, nurses, healthcare managers, medical sociologists, research
