January 10th 2012: GOING TO THE DOGS... WOLF DOGS, THAT IS

When the world seems as if it's going to the dogs, you can always find a bright spot to warm your heart. Today's guests will do just that with their inspirational story of how they are changing the world - at least the animal world. Dr. Lorin Lindner and Matthew Simmons fell in love with each other, and decided to share their love with animals who need rescuing. And so, the Lockwood Valley Animal Rescue Center, home to a growing number of grateful animals was born. Their latest rescue - 29 wolf dogs facing imminent death, brought from Alaska to California - tops them all!
