Hot and Healthy Sex Radio Archives Available January 23rd 2012: Sex and the Brain

This weeks' expert is Susan Macintosh. She's a Neuro Linguistic Practitioner. Together we'll discuss the brain's connections to our senses and emotions and how our development is affected with the focus being sexuality and sexual behavior. We'll identify three general over arching attitudes toward sexuality and behavior people are likely to have in adulthood, talk about how each might experience this part of their life and make suggestions for why. The show ends with the Sex Organ of the Week Question. Join us with your questions and comments.
