April 17th 2012: Handling bullying at school; Schoolwide Positive Behavior Support

In this episode of Autism Spectrum Radio Dr. Frea explores the effect of positive behavior supports in your child's education and home environment. The recent release of the movie "Bully" has thrust the often hostile culture of our school systems onto the public radar. Of particular note for the Autism community is the increased impact that bullying has on children with ASD's. Even more important to consider are the impacts the culture that is established within your child's school has on their long term developmental progress. In this episode Dr. Frea focuses on the study of positive beha
