July 25th 2012: Fate and Destiny—and exploration of the soul's path with Michael Meade

In this interview with storyteller, scholar, and mythologist Michael Meade we'll enter secret caves of truth, meander in labyrinths of stories, and gain access to the most important story there is, the story of our own lives. Michael Meade explores the essential living questions: What is the soul? How can we enter our challenges in such a way that they reveal the hidden light within us? How does darkness purify us? How can we line up with our fate and our destiny and allow them to work us into the full expression of our beauty? and What is courage and why is it necessary in the journey of being

Michael Meade

Michael Meade, D.H.L., is a renowned storyteller, author, and scholar of mythology, anthropology, and psychology. He combines hypnotic storytelling, street-savvy perceptiveness, and spellbinding interpretations of ancient myths with a deep knowledge of cross-cultural rituals. He has an unusual ability to distill and synthesize these disciplines, tapping into ancestral sources of wisdom and connecting them to the stories we are living today. He is the author of Fate and Destiny: The Two Agreements of The Soul, The World Behind the World, The Water of Life: Initiation and the Tempering of the Soul; editor, with James Hillman and Robert Bly, of Rag and Bone Shop of the Heart; and editor of Cross
