

Family Caregivers Unite!
Archives Available
October 9th 2012: Shattered Love, a Film about Pain and Devastation Caused by Alzheimer Disease

Tune in

Archives Available on
VoiceAmerica Variety Channel

EPISODE ON DEMAND

VIEW HOST PAGE

Dawn Fields is an independent film producer and the president of Palm Street Films, a feature film production company based in Los Angeles. She talks about her career and as a film producer and shares her thoughts about family caregiving. She explains why she got involved in producing the film 'Shattered Love'. She talks about the film's story, the pain and devastation caused by Alzheimer's disease. She says why it engaged her, and describes the reactions of her colleagues involved in the film. She describes the audience she's thinking of for the film and its message for particular communities

Read more

Featured Guest

Dawn Fields

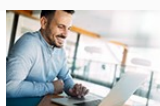

Dawn Fields is an independent film producer and the president of Palm Street Films, a feature film production company based in Los Angeles. She has over fifteen years of production experience working for such companies as Twentieth Century Fox, LucasFilm, Tri-Star, ABC, NBC Universal, Morgan Creek, Rat Productions, Lorimar, Orion and Aaron Spelling. Originally from Atlanta, Georgia, she worked in the southeastern film market for over ten years before moving to Los Angeles in 2000. In LA she's worked as a producer, director and editor. She also has a background in development, acquisitions and independent distribution. And she has several other feature films in various stages of development

Read more

Share This Episode

Connect with VoiceAmerica

Read what our hosts are writing about.

