

Educational Leadership: What Else is Possible?

Archives Available

April 11th 2013: Seven Levels of Leadership

Conscious leaders understand that regardless of how their story is unfolding, they have an active role in creating the story. But these leaders may not understand exactly how they are impacting the way their story unfolds. One way to examine the story is through the seven levels of leadership, created by Bruce D. Schneider, founder of iPEC. Through an understanding of these levels, leaders can quickly identify the lens through which they interpret the events of their story. Understanding these levels also gives the conscious leader choices in how to interpret and respond to situations. I

Read more

DOWNLOAD PDF

GET CODE

Tune in

Archives Available on
VoiceAmerica Variety Channel

EPISODE ON DEMAND

VIEW HOST PAGE

Featured Guests

Susan Gonzales

Susan is Chief Operating Officer at the Institute for Professional Excellence in Coaching (iPEC) where she manages all operations of the business, including iPEC's coach training programs, which serve educational systems, corporations, small-to-mid sized businesses, governments, law enforcement agencies, and non-profits around the world. With 20+ years of business and educational leadership experience, Susan has a seasoned background in strategic planning, financial management, and program growth and development. While working with educational organizations, Susan was searching for a means to empower, engage, and inspire their leaders to connect and engage their staff and students. W

Read more

Lawrence Lussier, BA, MEd

Lawrence Lussier, BA, MEd, is the Superintendent of Education in Pembina Trails School Division, with about 12,500 students in K-12 and 2000 employees. He has over 20 years experience working as an educational leader. Lawrence is a high energy person, who also holds the following professional coaching credentials: CPC, PCC and ELI-MP. His coach training from iPEC includes Core Energy Coaching, and Energy Leadership. Through his core energy coaching within the school division over the last 48 months he has helped individuals identify and remove the internal blocks to success creating increased productivity and fulfillment within the organization.

Read more

Share This Episode

Share On Facebook

Share On Twitter

Share On LinkedIn

Connect with VoiceAmerica

Download our mobile apps

Read what our hosts are writing about.

VOICEAMERICA BLOG