May 1st 2013: Open source computer currencies, local script currencies, barter and how this can create the new economy benefitting all people equally

Our discussion begin where we left off as we discussed using computer based currencies such as the Bitcoin and open source computer currencies such as the Ripple. Additionally, we will discuss local script currencies used by cities and the concept of barter. All of these will be evaluated as to their suitability to create the new economy based on a sharing of the wealth. We will also cover major news developments of the past week and Dr. Newton will finish teaching the second half of the Tai Chi Standing Meditation.
