May 22nd 2013: Leveraging Mobility to Achieve 'Wellness Care'

The idea of "wellness care" is that of promoting not just a physically fit body but an all-around healthy lifestyle. Numerous industries from healthcare providers, insurance companies, government agencies and corporations touch a person's life in a variety of ways, and all are poised to help aid this person's lifestyle choices. Do advances in mobile solutions now make this more possible given how consumers and organizations connect? If so, what benefits could this have to consumers and businesses more broadly, and what realistic steps need to be taken to work toward healthier living?
