December 30th 2010: Defeating Hepatitis C

Johnny Delirious and Lloyd Wright will each share their battle with Hepatitis C, a viral disease that affects the liver and is often fatal. After years of fighting the disease and being told they would not survive, each is now viral free and leading a healthy, normal life. Both men sought help from allopathic physicians, both turned down liver transplants, both survived using natural remedies and both have written books about the disease. They will address the cause, the treatment, and the challenges of the disease and what they are doing now to help others. They bring not only a message of h
