The Self Improvement Show Archives Available August 29th 2013: The Art of Waging Peace

All Americans want to be safe from terrorism and other threats to our national security. But, according to West Point graduate and Iraq War veteran Paul K. Chappell, we must debunk the myth that war makes us safe. "I want to shatter commonly held stereotypes about soldiers and peace activists," he says. "These stereotypes not only deceive and divide us, but they also prevent us from understanding the art of waging peace and the power it gives us to solve our national and global problems." In his latest book, The Art of Waging Peace: A Strategic Approach to Improving Our Lives and the World, Ch

Paul K. Chappell

Paul K. Chappell graduated from West Point in 2002, was deployed to Baghdad, and left active duty in November 2009 as a captain. The author of three other books, he serves as the peace leadership director for the Nuclear Age Peace Foundation and lectures throughout the country and internationally. He grew up in Alabama, the son of a Korean mother and a half-black and half-white father, who fought in the Korean and Vietnam Wars. For more information, visit www.paulkchappell.com. Paul states, "West Point and the U.S. Army trained me how to be a peace activist. If you think working for world peace means pursuing a naive and impossible dream, what I learned i
