Ginny Dennehy is co-founder, with her husband Kerry, and President of The Kelty Patrick Dennehy Foundation, www.thekeltyfoundation.org. They talk about their lives and experience with family caregiving. They explain the Foundation's work and their work for it. They describe the greatest challenges that arise in efforts to prevent suicide in teenagers and young adults. They discuss the progress so far in dealing with the challenges and identify the gaps that remain. They highlight the next steps they see for the medical and healthcare systems, schools and higher education, and the justice system.
