October 23rd 2013: The Value of Analytics and the Certified Analytics Professional (CAP)

Let's talk Analytics. This episode welcomes The Institute for Operations Research and the Management Sciences (INFORMS) in a discussion about the value of Analytics and the Certified Analytics Professional (CAP)®. INFORMS is the largest professional society in the world for professionals in the field of operations research (O.R.), management science, and analytics. As many organizations around the world launch and develop their Analytics efforts, this discussion brings insight and resources to the scientific process of transforming data into insight for making better decisions.
