Debut- High school athletes and college recruiting

The process of college recruiting has changed considerably over the years. College football is competitive. So is the recruiting process. College recruiting is a game, too. There are rules and strategies. Preparation and perseverance pay off. And with roster spots and scholarship dollars on the line, there are winners and losers. Hearing about what to do and not to do during this process from those who have been through it serves as valuable information. Our guest, Donte Gamble has successfully been there and done that. Lorenzo Reyna is currently on the front lines watching and writing about

Donte Gamble

Donte Gamble was an all city conference player at Washington high school in Los Angeles. At El Camino college, in Torrance, he was a unanimous pick as a cornerback and punt returner, and also was selected "All State" in California as a corner back. Donte transferred to San Diego State and started his first season as a corner back and on kick return. After graduating from San Diego State, Donte played for the Calgary Stampeders of the Canadian football League, the Peoria Pirates of American Football League, and the Ottawa Renegades. Donte is also coaching youth football and trying to spread the hope of opportunity of sport so kids can learn teamwork, multi tasking, and leadership, and he a

Lorenzo J. Reyna

"Even if someone tells you how great you are, still find ways to be better. Treat your goals like being at the buffet line. Got to stay hungry to become satisfied." -Lorenzo J. Reyna- If there's any 7-on-7 tournaments or skill camps that showcases emerging California football talent at the prep level, you can be assured Lorenzo J. Reyna will be there searching for the next big time prospects. Lorenzo is a strong fixture in the recruiting world as a writer. He became the coverage writer for Passing Down, one of the fastest-growing 7-on-7 tournaments in California.. Lorenzo has his blog corner, Cali Gold Mine, which was created in 2012 to help prospects in California get noticed. Cal
