September 29th 2014: National Police Dog Foundation

In 2004, The National Police Dog Foundation began to support Police K-9 units throughout the United States by providing quality police dogs and training, as well as assistance with K-9 emergency care and costly medical bills through a network of veterinarians. Further, they provide continued care for the Police service dog after it retires. Listen in as they talk about the great work they are doing providing assistance to Police K-9 units throughout the country, and as Senior Deputy Danni Delpit of the Ventura County Sheriff's Department, talks about the day her K-9 saved her life in the line o

Featured Guests

Dr. Ron Dalzell

Dr. Ron Dalzell, D.V.M., is a veterinarian and co-founder of the National Police Dog Foundation. He is a Board member and was owner of a busy veterinary hospital which has treated police K-9's, pro-bono, for the past 25 years. His practice also included a Wildlife rehab for 20 years. Since selling his hospital in 2006, most of his retirement has been devoted to continuing care of police K-9's in his Police K-9 Medical Unit, a donated ambulance.

Senior Deputy Danni Delpit

Senior Deputy Danni Delpit is a K-9 Officer with the Ventura County Sheriff's Dept. where she has worked for the past 20 years. She has been assigned to the K-9 unit and to her K-9 partner Dano for the past 4 years. Prior to being in the K-9 unit, Danni was a Gang Officer as, well as being a Field Training Officer training deputies on patrol. She has an incredible story of how her K-9 saved her life, and how her K-9 was the first recipient of the NPDF 'K-9 Hero of the Year Award' for his actions in saving her life.
