Dr. Ben Bell is a specialist in general internal medicine and an executive member of Thrombosis Canada, <http://thrombosiscanada.ca/>. He talks about his career, experience with family caregiving, and his work as a specialist and with Thrombosis Canada. He explains how blood clots cause strokes, heart attacks, and venous thromboembolism, and the importance of these conditions. He discusses developing online knowledge translation tools for healthcare providers and for family caregivers. He highlights the key things that family caregivers should know when they are caring at home for a family member.
