December 2nd 2014: Bringing the Joy of Eating Back for Alzheimer's Disease

Sarah Gorham and Stone Morris, www.grinddining.com, talk about their lives, careers and experience of family caregiving. They explain Grind Dining and the mission they've set for it. They describe the challenges associated with food, such as chewing, using utensils, self-feeding and to social inclusion in communal meals, which arise for individuals living with Alzheimer's disease. They discuss the ways in which Grind Dining helps in overcoming the challenges in chewing, using utensils, self-feeding, and to social inclusion during communal meals. They say what more they would like to do and se
