March 12th 2015: CHAMPIONS OF CHANGE

The Champions of Change program, instituted by the Obama administration, brings together ordinary people from across America who are doing extraordinary things in their respective fields. The issues that have been addressed to date range from clean energy and fatherhood, to immigrant integration and veterans. As the White House puts it, the best ideas come from the American people, and everyone has a story to tell, and a part to play. All across the United States, ordinary Americans are performing extraordinary feats in their communities to out-innovate, out-educate, and out-build the rest of

Dena Gray-Hughes

Dena Gray has invested over twenty years in personal and professional activism in the field of HIV/STD, and sexual health education. In this period, she has succeeded in connecting the community with viable resources through collaborative partnerships and client level investment. In 2011, she was named a Champion of Change and called to the White House to be a part of a roundtable on HIV/AIDS. Following her return from Washington, where she participated in the president's Champions of Change program, Mayor Annise Parker presented Dena Gray with a framed commendation awarded her by the Houston City Council.
