September 14th 2015: Special Encore Presentation:
Contemplation in Action and Other Timeless Leadership
Principles from the Jesuit Tradition with Father Kevin
O'Brien

Contemplation in Action. Men and Women for Others. Educating the Whole Person. Community in Diversity. Cura Personalis, or Care of the Person. These universal values are some of those at the heart of Georgetown University's Jesuit tradition and continue to guide Georgetown's future. Join Host Kate Ebner and Father Kevin O'Brien for a conversation about how Jesuit values can be essential guideposts for leadership today. They will explore the leadership principles that have guided the Jesuits for almost 500 years – and how they can make each of us a dynamic and effective leader in the 21st century.

Featured Guest

Rev. Kevin O'Brien, SJ (C'88)

Rev. Kevin O'Brien, SJ (C'88), Georgetown's vice president for mission and ministry, is responsible for promotion of Georgetown's Catholic and Jesuit character among faculty, students, staff, alumni and University governing boards. These activities include religious services and programming for the University's Catholic, Protestant, Orthodox Christian, Jewish, Muslim, Hindu and Buddhist communities. In addition to his administrative responsibilities, Father O'Brien teaches a Theology course, The Church in the 21st Century, and serves as a Jesuit-in-Residence in Copley Hall. Father O'Brien holds a JD from the University of Florida, an MA in Philosophy from Fordham, and MDiv and STL degrees
