

Indiana Jones: Myth, Reality and 21st Century Archaeology
Archives Available
October 21st 2015: The NPS: Almost 100 Years in the Making

The National Park Service (NPS) is just about to celebrate its 100th anniversary (August 25, 2016!). It seems only fitting we take a moment, park it, and take a proverbial hike through its history. The NPS is a land management, preservative, educational, and protective body for the United States parks and historical sites. Joining us today is Dr. Stanley Bond. Together we will get into the details of how the NPS handles public outreach, archaeological site and materials management, and the laws in place to protect our nation's wild places and historic legacy.

Tune in

Archives Available on VoiceAmerica
Variety Channel

EPISODE ON DEMAND

VIEW HOST PAGE

SHARE DOWNLOAD PDF GET CODE

Featured Guest

Dr. Stanley Bond

A native of Beaufort, South Carolina, Dr. Stanley C. Bond received a BA in Anthropology and a BS in Geology from the University of Alabama and a MA and PhD in Anthropology from the State University of New York at Albany. As an archaeologist Stan worked for the Historic St. Augustine Preservation Board and has work on prehistoric and historic archaeological sites throughout the east, southeast, Caribbean, and Hawaii. Other position he has held include Archeologist for the US Army Environmental Center, Archeologist and Integrated Resources Manager for Kaloko-Honokohau National Historical Park, Displaying Stanley Bond.jpg Hawaii, Superintendent for the Juan Bautista de Anza National Historic Tr

Read more

Share This Episode

Share On Facebook Share On Twitter Share On LinkedIn

Connect with VoiceAmerica

Download our mobile apps

