November 25th 2015: Turkey Domestication

Happy Thanksgiving Indy Fans. Today we have a belly full of information for you about TURKEYS! Yes, we are joined by Dr. Tyr Fothergill who studies turkey domestication. The study of the domestication of various animals is important because it is a means to measure the development of society as well as health. The Indy Team presents a clucky interview with the archaeologist herself to tell us what has been found and conjectured about this full coop of a discovery.
