December 07th 2015:Encore: TAMA BlueOnyx....New times call for new solutions and methods

Microcurrent is the most natural, non-invasive and holistic approach to facial treatment. It is a form of electrical massage that allows your face to attain better health naturally. This non-invasive, holistic modality is closest to the body's natural process. This procedure has been around since the 1800's; however, at the onset of Botox introduction in the 1980's, it lost its appeal because it took too long for those devices to show considerable improvement compared to Botox. Microcurrent practitioners expressed disappointment and frustration with devices that were on the market. They were
