Featured Guests

Tom Amoss

Tom Amoss is not only one of the country's top leading trainers who has horses on the Kentucky Derby an Oaks trail, but he is also a horse lover at heart. Recently he discovered that a former multiple stakes winner has slipped through the cracks and was in a $4,000 claiming race at Delta Downs. Amoss claimed Populist Politics out of his final winning effort and retired him to Robin Murphy's Poplar Creek Horse Center. Born Nov. 17, 1961 in New Orleans, LA, Tom is a graduate of Louisiana State University with a degree in marketing and a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity, Tom Amoss had worked with horses while in high school and after completing his education went to work for trainers Frank

Pete Aiello

Currently Oaklawn Park's racing analyst and Announcer, Pete Aiello is a native of South Florida and a graduate of the University of Arizona Race Track Industry Program. Mr. Aiello was the track announcer at Hialeah Park and River Downs. He also has called the Quarter Horse meetings the last three years at Hialeah Park, a racetrack that was integral in Aiello's introduction to racing as a youngster. Aiello got interested in announcing as a child growing up and playing a computer game that simulated races but did not have an announcer. He called his first full card of races while working as an intern at Finger Lakes in New York in 2006. He called races at "bush tracks" in Arizona after tha
