April 5th 2016: Real-Time Insights: Driving Finance Transformation

The buzz: I can see clearly now. In its long-time role as steward of the enterprise, Finance could only make recommendations to the business after month-end, based on past results. But with technology now providing real-time insights into finance and operations, the office of the CFO can look ahead and guide its constituents to navigate a true course through any economic climate. How? Finance can focus on interpretation and predictive analysis to help the company focus on strategic goals. The experts speak. Nilly Essaides, Association for Financial Professionals: "Great things are done by a
