February 21st 2017: Are Stocks In Their Terminal Melt-Up Phase?

Peter Grandich, Amir Adnani and Michael Oliver Return. Peter Grandich, AKA "The former Wall St. whiz kid," returns to tell us why he thinks the U.S. equity markets are in their terminal "melt up" stage. He will also share his thoughts on what you should do to protect yourself against the carnage of the next major bear market. Michael will provide his usual dependable commentary not only on precious metals and stocks but he will also share his latest work on uranium which has been in a very long and severe bear market. Those views will be particularly important for this week's show because Ami

Peter Grandich

With no formal education or training, Peter Grandich entered Wall Street in the mid-1980s and within three years was appointed V.P. of Investment Strategy for a leading NY Stock Exchange member firm. Now an internationally-acclaimed financial expert, Grandich has made a 25-plus-year career out of his knack for uncannily-accurate market predictions. Labeled the "Wall Street Whiz Kid" by Good Morning America, Grandich gained national notoriety by forecasting the 1987 stock market crash just weeks before it happened and on the very next day that within two years the market would reach a new all-time high – which it did. Grandich also predicted that 2000 would go down as the year the great meg

J. Michael Oliver

J. Michael Oliver entered the financial services industry in 1975 on the Futures side, joining E.F. Hutton's International Commodity Division, NYC. He studied under David Johnson, head of Hutton's Commodity Division and Chairman of the COMEX. In the 1980's Oliver began to develop his own momentum-based method of technical analysis. In 1987 Oliver, along with his futures client accounts (Oliver had trading POA) technically anticipated and captured the Crash. Oliver began to realize that his emergent momentum-structural-based tools should be further developed into a full analytic methodology. In 1992 he was asked by the Financial VP and head of Wachovia Bank's Trust Department to provi
